xBlog is a blog program based on DNN, it has powerful functions and unique design style. In addition to article management function which common blog module has, it also includes special functions of theme managing, editing template and ping service. The theme and template apply Velocity template language. This template language is widely used and simple. By referring to our user manual and template manual, you can call any blog and DNN data conveniently. Combined with HTML, you can create all kinds of blog interface randomly. Themes can be exported and imported and it can switching between themes freely. Furthermore, we provide many pretty themes and DNN blog skin to build website.
